We want to ensure our students are able to enrich the world and succeed as future global talent in whatever career path they choose and we recognise that in today’s increasingly competitive globally connected world, an excellent degree is no longer enough if you want to stand out from the crowd. Our care and commitment to developing and equipping you with the knowledge, skills and attributes to operate anywhere in the world goes beyond your time studying with us and that is why we support and encourage students to engage in a range of international experiences during their time with us. Our academic staff are involved in cutting edge research and enterprise that make a genuine contribution to society both nationally and internationally – whether we are understanding the physics of knee joints, developing processes to make the animation of movie characters more realistic, pioneering innovative cross-subject approaches to solving medical problems, or trying to understand drivers for climate change.

Although, like many universities, we are organised into different academic faculties, we make sure our work (particularly our research) does not stay isolated within those structures. We have a different way of working to ensure a joined-up way of thinking prevails. We work without barriers, collaborating and sharing with each other to deliver world leading, life-changing research that we are passionate about.

Our research is arranged into different themes that describe what the research is about, rather than the specific faculty is conducting it. Indeed, many of our research projects involve academics from different faculties working together, and we place a lot of emphasis on developing processes, structures and learning spaces that make it easier to work together.

Research themes

- Communities, Cultures & Conflicts
- Creative, Digital & Cognitive Science
- Biodiversity, Environmental Change & Green Economy
- Aging & Dementia
- Leisure, Recreation & Tourism
- Entrepreneurship & Economic Growth
- Technology & Design
- Health, Wellbeing & Society

Doctoral opportunities

BU offers a range of Doctoral opportunities, supported by academic staff with high levels of expertise, gained through their research activity, connections with industry, professional experience and international collaborations. We are also committed to 100 fully-funded and part-funded PhDs over the next six years. To view Doctoral opportunities at BU, visit research.bournemouth.ac.uk/postgraduate-research
